Gatineau police were hunting for a gunman Thursday after an early morning shooting left two people injured and residents evacuated from their homes in Mont-Bleu.

Gatineau police say a man fled the scene shortly after they received several 911 calls about gunshots. They responded to the area of rue Daniel-Johnson and rue Tassé at around 1:30 a.m. Police say the shooting may be gang related.

Police spokesman Jean-Paul Lemay told reporters at the scene Thursday afternoon the two victims are in their 20s and are from Ottawa.

One was found inside a nearby car and was hospitalized for a gunshot wound to his leg. The other man was found in a nearby store and was treated in hospital for superficial wounds.

The shooting was likely targeted and there's no threat to the public, said Lemay. The victims are known to police and have not been co-operating with investigators.

Their injuries were not considered life-threatening.

Lemay said they chased the suspected gunman on foot and believed he ran into 12 rue Tassé. Police formed a perimeter around the scene and eight apartments were evacuated of nearly 200 people.

It's not known whether he somehow fled the building while police were on scene or did not enter the building in the first place.

Police believe he is no longer in the area.

Those living at 8 and 12 rue Tassé were being allowed back inside gradually, as investigators wrapped up their work on scene Thursday evening.

Lucille Cretes, who lives on rue Tassé, said she heard several gunshots at around 1:30 a.m. When she looked outside, she saw a black car driving off and somebody running away.

It's a "rough" neighbourhood, she said, but this shooting is especially worrisome for her because she has two children.

ALS. Local billionaire to join ice bucket challenge

Rob Ford, James Cameron, and Joe Oliver — these are just a few notable Canadians who have already taken the ALS ice bucket challenge to raise funds and awareness for Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis research.

Now, another famous Canadian is taking up the viral Internet sensation: Ottawa's own billionaire and tech mogul, Sir Terrence Matthews.

The 71-year-old Mitel co-founder and chairman of Wesley Clover International plans to take the plunge on Sept. 2 at as part of Tech Tuesday at the Kanata Marshes Golf Club. Tech Tuesday is a monthly high-tech networking event hosted by the Wesley Clover team.

Bruce Lazenby, president and CEO of Invest Ottawa, and Debbie Weinstein, founding partner of LaBarge Weinstein LLP, will also join Matthews in the ice bucket challenge.

"The worldwide campaign that the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge has become is a great example of how the power of modern communications can be leveraged for important causes like this," wrote the trio in a joint statement Thursday.

The popular Internet phenomenon has already raised more than $10 million for ALS Canada and $94.3 million in the U.S. for the ALS Association. JOE LOFARO/METRO

Holt Renfrew set to close in Ottawa

But another store opens. 'Major' retailer coming to Sparks Street

joe.lofar@metronews.ca

Things are shaking up on Canada's oldest pedestrian mall with the upcoming closing of high-end retailer Holt Renfrew and the addition of another big box store along Sparks Street.

Les Gagne, executive director of the Sparks Street

BIA, released few details in an interview Thursday, but told Metro a "major Canadian retailer" is coming in to replace part of the Zellers location that closed last year at 156 Sparks Street.

While Gagne wouldn't spill the beans on what type of store is taking its place, he said a formal announcement will be made by the company in the fall and the store would occupy approximately 20,000 to 30,000 square feet.

Holt Renfrew, which has a store down the street at 240 Sparks, announced Thursday it is shutting down operations at its Ottawa and Quebec City locations at the end of January 2015 as it restructures the company. Expansions are being planned in other markets like Toronto and Calgary, the company said.

The restructuring in Ottawa will result in 72 job losses.

"While the stores performed well and these communities were cherished, it was ultimately concluded that Holt Renfrew's enhanced specialty luxury business model requires a significantly larger store footprint in any target market and a deep assortment across a wide array of its core brand partners," the company said in a news release Thursday.

The BIA doesn't yet know which business will take over the space currently occupied by the Holt Renfrew.

"What we would like to see is a neat complement to our mix and what we have to offer on Sparks Street," said Gagne. "Sparks Street is going to have the merchants that we've been wanting to have for a long time."

Poetry in da House: Hip-hop fest to showcase wordsmiths

House of Paint. Urban street festival's lineup includes slam poet Open Secret, Afrofunk/ deep disco group Ikebe Shakedown

trevor.greenway@metronews.ca

It's never been too difficult to get people out to the House of Paint Hip Hop Festival, but the challenge this year will be trying to transition from a high-energy breakdancing battle to spoken-word poetry.

Organizers of the 11-year-old urban street festival are "taking a chance" during the festival's main event with a top-notch list of spoken word and slam poets that will take over the stage during the final breakdancing battle. House of Paint festival producer Robert Reid says there is too much poetic talent in Ottawa to ignore.

"We are going to try to provide some opportunities for some of Ottawa's world-class spoken-word artists to get in front of new audiences," said Reid.

Ottawa has one of the most profound spoken-word and slam-poetry communities in the world. We have produced two of the world champions over the last four years."

The 2014 spoken-word/slam-poet world champion Ikenna Onyegbula, a.k.a. Open Secret, will be throwing out rhymes at the festival this year, as will several other Ottawa wordsmiths. Reid can't wait for worlds to collide.

"It's such an interesting scene, it's such a cerebral contemporary performance art," he said.

"When you have this many artists all collaborating in one space at a time, visually for a festival-goer, I wouldn't say it's overwhelming, but it's certainly quite a spectacle and the music is just so dope."

Headlining the main event is Brooklyn Afrofunk and deep disco group Ikebe Shakedown, who will play alongside a slew of local and international DJs, including B-boy battle DJ Skeme Richards and MC Mariano.

The four-day event from Sept. 4 to 7 will feature hundreds of artists spray-painting murals and art pieces underneath the Dunbar Bridge all weekend long. There are also dancing classes and workshops, and even a kid's tent.

Breakdancers battle it out on the main stage at last year's House of Paint Hip Hop Festival. CONTRIBUTED/JAMES PARK

Stabbing. Police want to talk to these three men

Ottawa police investigating the fatal Saturday night stabbing of Jabeir Jemmie have released photos of three persons of interest, who they want to talk to.

Police are asking these people — or anyone who knows these people — to come forward.

"Investigators would like the three men, who have been identified as persons of interest, to come forward and be interviewed," said Staff Sgt. Rob Drummond of the major crime section in a news release.

"Pictures of the victim Jabeir Jemmie are also being released to show what he was wearing the night of the murder and trigger people's memory," Drummond added. "Jabeir was wearing a dark shirt and later added a white piece of clothing on his shoulders."

The 21-year-old Jemmie was stabbed repeatedly outside the Living Room bar on the corner of Elgin and Frank streets at around 2:30 a.m. following an alleged fight inside.

Police are asking anybody who was near the Living Room bar between 2:15 a.m. and 2:45 a.m. on Aug. 23 to come forward. LUCY SCHOLEY/METRO

Jays give $210K for wheelchair-accessible baseball diamond

Kids with special needs who dream of swinging a bat and running bases are getting a helping hand from the Toronto Blue Jays.

Canada's national baseball team, through the Jays Care Foundation, is donating $210,000 towards a specially tailored baseball diamond in Ottawa for kids in wheelchairs, according to an announcement on Thursday.

It's the largest single donation for the Miracle League of Ottawa, a non-profit organization planning the roughly $1-million diamond, playground, canteen and accessible washrooms.

The funding announcement comes on the heels of the TSN and Kraft Celebration Tour, an online competition that grants cash prizes to the top-voted community projects. The Miracle League of Ottawa won $25,000 from the contest, but missed out on the $75,000 grand prize. LUCY SCHOLEY/METRO

Dozens injured after tour bus rolls on highway

Dozens of people were injured, six of them critically, after a tour bus rolled over on a mountain highway in British Columbia, police said Thursday afternoon.

RCMP Sgt. Norm Flemming said 15 of the 56 passengers were seriously injured when the southbound bus crashed at about 3 p.m. Thursday on the Coquihalla Highway, about 30 kilometres south of Merritt.

Flemming said everyone aboard the bus was injured to some degree, suffering from bumps, bruises and cuts requiring stitches. He said there were no known fatalities.

"The cause of the accident is right now under investigation," Flemming said. "I just don't have enough information to hazard a guess."

Charlottetown. 100 young Canadians meet to shape vision for nation's future

In 1864, three years before Confederation, Canada's soon-to-be founding fathers gathered at the Charlottetown Conference on Prince Edward Island. The ideas they discussed there laid the groundwork for what Canada is now.

This Sunday, 150 years later, the New Canada Conference will ask, "What's next?"

Created by PEI 2014 and based in Charlottetown, the four-day event brings together delegates aged 19 to 24 from across Canada to create a vision of what Canada could become.

"We wanted to host an event that would really create dialogue and offer an opportunity to examine Canada's future, and really also define the public agenda for the next 50 years," said Penny Walsh McGuire, executive director with PEI 2014.

"When we reflected on the 1864 Charlottetown Conference, there were a lot of voices not represented at the table among the 23 leaders," she said. Those missing voices included

First Nations, women, the Acadian community and youth.

More than 800 potential delegates from every province and territory applied to attend the conference. One hundred were chosen. "We know we have an amazing delegation coming here," said Walsh McGuire. "When we look at Canada's future ... among these delegates will be the leaders."

Each delegate will specialize in one of eight concentrations, including learning and social development; justice and equity; and environment and economy. An expert facilitator will lead discussions and brainstorming around each topic.

On Day 3, delegates will present their ideas and add them to the conference Ideabook, a document that will summarize the key findings and recommendations. Walsh McGuire called the Ideabook "a gift for Canada's future."

"It's not a conclusion, but a start to something important," she said.

"Just out of an abundance of precaution or caution, NORAD jets were launched and they monitored the situation from the air." NORAD spokeswoman Army Capt. Ruth Castro granted bail Thursday.

The flight left Toronto at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday en route to Varadero via Manzanillo, but was disrupted by "two unruly female passengers," Sunwing said. The women consumed a "significant quantity of their duty-free alcohol purchase in the lavatory and lit a cigarette, triggering the smoke detector alarm," Chapman said. "The passengers proceeded to get into a physical altercation with each other and made a threat against the aircraft."

The pilot decided to turn the plane around over South Carolina and "that's when NORAD got involved," said Major Julie Roberge, a spokeswoman for NORAD based in Colorado Springs, Colo.

NORAD scrambled two CF-18 fighter jets based out of Bagotville, Que., to escort Flight 656 back to Toronto.

The jets met the aircraft at the Canadian border and did not venture into American airspace, Roberge said. The CF-18 escort lasted just four minutes, she said.

The aircraft landed at Pearson International Airport at about 8:30 p.m. and Peel Regional Police Const. Thomas Rutman said the entire plane "erupted in cheers" when the two women were removed from the aircraft.

The flight took off for a second time from Toronto around 11 p.m. Wednesday with a new flight crew, Chapman said.

When there is an incident on board an aircraft, the pilot reports the disturbance to their traffic control centre, said NORAD spokeswoman Army Capt. Ruth Castro. The control centre then relays the incident to the Domestic Event Network, which is hosted by the Federal Aviation Administration, she said. NORAD monitors the event network and responds based on the level of the disturbance, Castro said.

She couldn't say what information NORAD had about the situation on board the Sunwing flight at the time it scrambled the jets, "but the purpose of that DEN is to provide timely notification to the appropriate authorities that there is an emerging air-related problem or incident," Castro said. Ukraine claims Russia sending tanks and troops Satellite photos.

NATO says at least 1,000 Russian troops are inside the country

Ukraine accused Russia on Thursday of entering its territory with tanks, artillery and troops, and Western powers said Moscow had "outright lied" about its role and dangerously escalated the conflict.

Russia dismissed the allegations, describing the fighters there as "Russian volunteers." The Kremlin has repeatedly denied arming and supporting the separatists who have been fighting Ukrainian troops for four months in the gravest crisis between Russia and the West since the end of the Cold War.

NATO said at least 1,000 Russian troops are in Ukraine and later released what it said were satellite photos of Russian self-propelled artillery units moving last week.

Two columns of tanks and other equipment entered southeastern Ukraine at midday, following heavy shelling of the area from Russia that forced overmatched Ukrainian border guards to flee, said Col. Andriy Lysenko, a spokesman for Ukraine's national security council.

"Russian forces have entered Ukraine," President Petro Poroshenko said in Kyiv, cancelling a foreign trip and calling an emergency meeting of his security council.

He urged Ukrainians to remain calm.

"Destabilization of the situation and panic, this is as much of a weapon of the enemy as tanks," Poroshenko told the council.

U.S. President Barack Obama spoke with German Chancellor Angela Merkel, and both leaders agreed Russia must face consequences for its actions.

Obama says U.S. will not take military action

President Barack Obama is ruling out the possibility that the U.S. will take military action to address growing violence in Ukraine.

Obama says the U.S. will stand firm with its allies to address the conflict in Ukraine, where the U.S. says Russia is backing pro-Russian separatists. But Obama says a military confrontation between the U.S. and Russia in the region "is not in the cards."

NATO mission. Canada's fighter jets edging closer to Russian airspace

Canadian fighter jets will be patrolling the edge of Russian airspace next week as part of NATO's response to the unravelling situation in Ukraine.

Four of the six CF-18s sent overseas by the Harper government earlier this year have arrived at Siauliai Air Base in Lithuania, where they will fly armed air policing missions over the Baltic states.

The formal handover of responsibility is expected to take place early next week and the mission is expected to last until the end of the year.

While in Lithuania, the Canadian jets will be working alongside fighter jets from Portugal. Germany and Belgium also have fighters in the region, but they will be carrying out flights from bases in another Baltic state.

The jets, which had been based in Romania on a training exercise, are tasked with defending Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian airspace because those countries are unable to do so on their own.

The man behind Tim Hortons

'Ghost in the corporate machine.' Metro looks at the relationship between the tragic Stanley Cup champion and Canada's iconic brand

JESSICA SMITH CROSS
Metro in Toronto

The hockey player's name is perhaps said more often than any other in Canada — no, it's not Wayne Gretzky.

In all of the talk of what Burger King Worldwide Inc.'s acquisition of Tim Hortons means for Canada's iconic brand, there's little mention of Tim Horton, the man — a Stanley Cup-winning defenceman for the 1950s and '60s Maple Leafs, who died driving drunk near St. Catharines, Ont., in 1974.

"Horton is a ghost in the corporate machine," said Douglas Hunter, author of a book on Miles Gilbert (Tim) Horton and one on Tim Hortons. "He has pretty much disappeared from the store that bears his name."

Fact or Farce?

Tim Horton-less Tim Hortons became synonymous with Canadian identity in part of because of the CBC show Royal Canadian Air Farce, said author Douglas Hunter.

- The bit. "It was this group of idiot-savant Canadians who'd gather around the table and in their own kind of dopey way comment on the issues of the day, cementing this idea that doughnut shops are where Canadians gather together and thrash out what it means to be Canadian."

- Sipping votes. Politicians picked up on the association with regular Canadians, which has turned Tim Hortons into a favoured spot for photo ops.

Prior to his death, the coffee chain had begun to "disengage" Horton from the restaurant, said Hunter, as Horton wasn't comfortable as a "persona" and the company wanted to focus on its food. The phasing out of Horton continued after the circumstances surrounding Horton's death mired the chain's founder in controversy.

On Feb. 21, 1974, Horton, who then played for the Buffalo Sabres, was heading to Buffalo for treatment after taking a puck to the jaw and stopped to meet his partner, Ron Joyce, in the doughnut shop chain, said Hunter. At 4 a.m. Horton went off the road at high speed. Alcohol and pills were found at the scene, but at the time whether or not he was driving drunk was publicly disputed and unconfirmed. (In 2005, the Ottawa Citizen obtained a copy of Horton's autopsy confirming Horton's blood alcohol was twice the legal limit, and traces of Dexamyl, a prescription drug, had been found in his system.)

"At the time he died there were about 50 restaurants open or in development (in Ontario),

Johnny McLellan, left, coach of the Maple Leafs, welcomes all-star defenceman Tim Horton to practice at Maple Leaf Gardens in 1969. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE FILE and they had just signed the first deal in Atlantic Canada," said Hunter. Tim Hortons continued to grow without Horton.

Then, in the late '80s, Lori Horton, Tim's widow, sued Joyce, seeking to reverse her decision to sell her inherited share of Tim Hortons to him for $1 million and a Cadillac Eldorado, saying she wasn't of sound mind due to substance use.

"As part of her arguments a lot of dirty laundry — as Tim's friends put it — came out. She said, 'I'm not that bad person in this relationship; he had a drinking problem, he was angry, he was violent, and he threatened me,'" said Hunter. "There was a lot of airing of stuff that ... was, on a very basic level for Tim Hortons the brand, a problem."

By the time Lori Horton lost her case in '93, there were about 700 Tim's restaurants.

According to Hunter, the reason Tim Hortons continues to expand, with little acknowledgement of its founder is, in part, because Horton became "toxic" to the brand.

But Horton wasn't entirely erased. In fact, when his portrait was used as part of a "Tim Horton the Legend" promotion for the Tim Hortons children's camps, Lori Horton sued the company, arguing she had copyright of the photo.

"It was a spiteful suit after she lost the initial suit over the sale," said Hunter. He said the company decided to take the posters down.

Although Horton is not often mentioned in Canada, Hunter said some of Tim Hortons' marketing in the U.S. has included Tim Horton as a hockey player on American teams — neglecting his nearly two decades and four Stanley Cup wins with the Maple Leafs — to emphasize the company's American connections.

The doughnut that outduelled the rest

Out of over 76,000 entries, Jennifer Brown's crème brûlée-filled doughnut topped with peanut butter cups has taken home top prize in the Tim Hortons Duelling Doughnuts contest.

Brown, from Glencoe, Ont., topped an online vote, winning $10,000 in prize money and the chance to see her creation sold in Tim Hortons across Canada. THE CANADIAN PRESS

A&F's teen store blues

The Abercrombie & Fitch logo has lost the power it once wielded. Shares of Abercrombie & Fitch Co. tumbled Thursday, after reporting weak sales as more teens shop elsewhere. The company is trying to stock trendier clothing — and it turns out that means stripping off the once-prized Abercrombie logo.

The New Albany, Ohio-based retailer reported that revenue fell 5.8 per cent to $890.6 million, short of analyst estimates.

Revenue at stores open at least a year dropped a steep 11 per cent, including eight per cent at U.S. stores. The company's earnings per share beat estimates.

A&F and other traditional teen stores are facing an uphill battle to turn their businesses around as mall traffic drops and shoppers' tastes change.

A slowly recovering economy is making parents and teens think twice about splurging on clothes. Expensive standbys like Abercrombie have lost business to "fast fashion" chains like H&M, known for quickly churning out trendy $9 tops. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHEN TOMATOES & TIMBITS WERE KING

Welcome to the final Metro List of the silly season (after Labour Day, everyone's back at work and the real news starts up again). In honour of its passing, we begin with:

1 La Tomatina. Every year since 1945, the good citizens of Buñol in Valencia, Spain have set aside the last Wednesday in August to throw tomatoes at each other. More than 150,000 tomatoes — approximately 40 tonnes — are sacrificed during the hour-long purée mêlée. Tomatoes are pre-crushed, so no one is actually hurt. And they grow tomatoes specifically for the event. Silly, yes. Sloppy, yes. Shoddy, no.

2 Would You Like Fries with those Timbits? Our Canadian identity was seriously shaken this week as Burger King, home of the Whopper, bought Tim Hortons, home of the double-double, for more than $12 billion. No one's quite sure what it means for our national café, but at least they'll never run out of ketchup as 3G, the company that owns Burger King, also recently partnered with Warren Buffett to purchase Heinz and all its 57 varieties.

THE METRO LIST
Paul Sullivan

3 Guess Who's Making a Profit? Canada Post, that's who! In the most unlikely resurrection since Lazarus, Canada Post turned a second-quarter loss of $104 million in 2013 to a profit of $53 million in 2014. Of course, the 35 per cent increase in the price of a stamp, imposed on April Fool's Day, had something to do with it. And more than a million people are scheduled to lose home delivery over the next year. (Mail Nazi: No home delivery for you!) But the last time

Canada Post made a profit was 2010, so our postal privations are paying off.

4 Last Lesson in Arizona. A shooting instructor in Dolan Springs, Arizona, gave an Uzi machine gun to a nine-year-old girl, told her to fire off a round, which she did, and then instructed her to go "full auto." What could possibly go wrong? Everything, it turned out. The little girl was unable to control the weapon's recoil and the instructor was cut down dead in a hail of bullets. Apart from trauma that will last a lifetime, the girl was unharmed. When will they ever learn?

5 In This Guy's Case, Maybe Never. Stop me if you've heard this before: Justin Bieber was driving his red Ferrari on the streets of Los Angeles.... This time, angered because he was being followed by the paparazzi, he slammed on his brakes and the hapless photographer smashed into him. Apparently suffering a soft tissue injury, Bieber tweeted: "We should have learned from the death of Princess Diana..." Well, Justin, you should learn something. Anything.

6 And in Other News. The United Nations' Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change final draft report says global warming is here, it's already dangerous and it could be irreversible. Guess the silly season really is over.

The iTunes Festival

iTunes Festival is a highlight of the musical year – and Metro wants to take you there. If going to jolly old London to party the way music superstars like Beck, Pharrell, Elbow and Lenny Kravitz do – sounds like a dream, Metro wants to make that dream come true.

Thirty days of wicked fun kickoff on Sept. 1, with more than 60 artists playing live at the renowned Roundhouse in London. The Roundhouse opened in 1846 with very different beginnings as a steam engine repair centre. Over the years, it took different paths; eventually becoming what is now a legendary performance hall hosting the likes of Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin and Jimi Hendrix.

Since the iTunes Festival launched in 2007, it has carried on the tradition of stellar performances, bringing in mega stars like Adele, Katy Perry, Elton John, Coldplay and the Foo Fighters. Aside from the artists already mentioned, this year's lineup runs the gamut from BECK to David Gray, Maroon 5 to Pharrell Williams - something for all musical passions.

Experience it live with the world

Watch performances in real-time with the rest of the world by streaming them in HD every day in September at 4 p.m. ET/1 p.m. PT. You can watch on your computer, through iTunes on your iPhone, iPad or iPod touch or watch on the big screen through Apple TV. SEPT 2

Once known primarily through his '90s anti-anthem, Loser, Beck Hansen has evolved from scruffy sonic collagist to funk-and-soul revivalist to one of popular music's most esteemed and vital singer-songwriters. After a six-year break between solo releases, this year marked the arrival of one of his finest moments, Morning Phase. The glittering, expertly crafted folk opus is—as Beck has been from the very beginning—singularly hypnotic.

SEPT 10

A visionary R&B/pop/soul renaissance man and studio innovator, Pharrell Williams lent his magic touch and sugared falsetto to two of last year's defining singles—Robin Thicke's Blurred Lines and Daft Punk's retro-futurist delight Get Lucky. But in 2014, Williams' titanic G I R L further established him as a disarming solo artist, offering the insanely catchy, Oscar®-nominated neo-soul centerpiece, Happy.

SEPT 16

Led by Debbie Harry's insouciant wail, Blondie bridged the gap between the artfully trashy punk and new wave of mid-'70s New York and mainstream disco. They stormed charts on both sides of the Atlantic with an eclectic array of songs, including the shoutalong chorus of Call Me, the seductive coo (and visionary rap) of Rapture, and the reggae lilt of The Tide Is High.

SEPT 27

Guitar hero, wild child, pop idol - Lenny Kravitz became one of the most distinctive personalities in music through his radiant fusion of psychedelic rock, funk, and soul. After releasing 1989's brilliant Let Love Rule, singles like Are you Gonna Go My Way and Fly Away made the singer/songwriter/multi-instrumentalist one of the most popular and critically acclaimed musicians of the late '90s. Kravitz's tenth studio album, Strut, continues his reign as a visceral force in rock 'n' roll.

SEPT 27

Through a series of vivid transformations—coquettish starlet, electro-dance diva, pop provocateur—Kylie has become one of pop music's most enduring figures. She scored her breakthrough with a sparkling cover of Little Eva's The Loco-Motion in the late '80s. Since then, the Australian-born singer has issued a series of platinum releases, become a stalwart presence on the charts, and picked up ARIAs, BRITs, and GRAMMY®s.

Say sayonara to summer!

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Long weekend catch-up. The Reel Guys offer their suggestions for the flicks you probably missed when you were at the cottage

Richard: Mark, the summer's biggest hit, Guardians of the Galaxy, is a lot of fun and deserves all the attention it's getting, but for me the two best sci-fi films of the season were Dawn of the Planet of the Apes and Snowpiercer. Apes is a smart movie about race, gun usage and xenophobia that doesn't shy away from big ideas, while Snowpiercer is an unapologetically weird environmental thriller about a revolution on a train. For me it's the nerviest actioner to come along in a season crowded with movies that go crash, boom, bang. What grabbed you this summer?

Mark: Richard, I usually cringe at the beginning of the summer expecting nothing but comic book adaptations and sequels. But this summer those kinds of films turned out to be among the best. The three you mentioned were excellent, but I'd also like to add X-Men: Days of Future Past and Captain America: The Winter Soldier, both of which were smart, exciting, and had time travel motifs. Heck, even the latest instalment of Transformers was a major step forward: I didn't run screaming for the exit. But here are two smaller films that I thoroughly enjoyed:

Begin Again, about a burned-out music producer trying to reinvent himself in hipster New York, and Chef, the story of a burned-out gourmet cook who is fired and is forced to start over with his own broken-down food truck. Hey, notice a theme here?

RC: Then there was the story of the burned-out comic. Obvious Child came to the theatres with a reputation. In its film festival run, it got labelled "the abortion rom-com." While that shorthand description is technically accurate, it's also reductive, ignoring the film's well-crafted and hilarious coming-of-age story about accepting responsibility to concentrate on the more sensational aspect of the story. I know you weren't a fan, but I liked it and thought Jenny Slate was terrific in the lead role.

MB: Didn't work for me, but I did like the James Brown biopic Get On Up. The movie lurches around trying to find its groove but Chadwick Boseman deserves an Oscar nomination for his total immersion in the role. 22 Jump Street was a pleasant surprise. I didn't care for 21, but this one had a sharper, funnier script and more evolved performances from Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum. And I mostly liked Zach Braff's unofficial sequel to Garden State, Wish I Was Here. The Kickstarter funded indie had too much going on to succeed but there were some great sequences that a lot of critics seemed to miss.

RC: I started off talking about Guardians, which, deservedly so, has become the biggest hit of the summer.

Synopsis

If you're like the Reel Guys you don't see the long weekend as the last chance to head up to the cottage for a final blast of summer, but more of a three-day sprint to catch up on all the movies you missed over the past three months while you were busy jumping off docks, BBQing or basking in the wondrousness of warm weather. With this list the Reel Guys say sayonara to the silly season and serve up one last refreshing sip of the summer's best air-conditioner movies we took in while the rest of you were slathering on SPF 110.

Miles of twisting catacombs lie beneath the streets of Paris, the eternal home to countless souls. When a team of explorers ventures into the uncharted maze of bones, they uncover the secret of what this city of the dead was meant to contain. A journey into madness and terror, As Above, So Below reaches deep into the human psyche to reveal the personal demons that come back to haunt us all.	Fed up with being censored in their post-Trailer Park Boys lives, the out-of-work stars and world-renowned 'swearists' Mike Smith, Robb Wells and John Paul Tremblay decide to start their own uncensored network on the internet.	Michael Winterbottom's largely improvised 2010 film, The Trip , took comedians Steve Coogan and Rob Brydon — or semi-fictionalized versions thereof — on a restaurant tour around northern England. In this followup, Winterbottom reunites the pair for a new culinary road trip, retracing the steps of the Romantic poets' grand tour of Italy and indulging in some sparkling banter.	Code-named The November Man , Peter Devereaux (Pierce Brosnan) is a lethal and highly trained ex-CIA agent, who has been enjoying a quiet life in Switzerland. When Devereaux is lured out of retirement for one last mission, he must protect a valuable witness, Alice Fournier (Olga Kurylenko). He soon uncovers this assignment marks him a target of his former friend and CIA protégé.	Co-directors Robert Rodriguez and Frank Miller reunite to bring Miller's visually stunning Sin City graphic novels back to the screen in Sin City: A Dame To Kill For . Weaving together two of Miller's classic stories with new tales, the town's most hard-boiled citizens cross paths with some of its more notorious inhabitants.	The haunting story of The Giver centres on Jonas (Brenton Thwaites), a young man who lives in a seemingly ideal, if colourless, world of conformity and contentment. Yet as he begins to spend time with The Giver (Jeff Bridges), who is the sole keeper of all the community's memories, Jonas quickly begins to discover the dark and deadly truths of his community's secret past.

The Calling. Filmmaker throws back to the slow-burn crime dramas of the '90s

"My resumé belies some of my appetite for gross-out humour," laughs Jason Stone, the South-African born, Toronto-raised producer of the Seth Rogen hit This Is the End.

But today we're not talking about his edgy work with Rogen, his writing (he co-wrote the satanic comedy Teen Lust, which debuts at the Toronto International Film Festival this year) or his award-winning short films.

"I love using the scope of filmmaking and really getting the wheels turning," he says, "being larger than life and creating a world. I thought The Calling had all of that, elements of mystery and comedy and drama, that I thought were a real draw."

The Calling is his feature directing debut and stars Susan Sarandon as a small-town Canadian cop tracking down a serial killer. "I still pinch myself that it all came together the way it did," he says. "There's a saying in casting, 'Who's going to be your cast magnet?' We had a pretty powerful magnet with Susan, and once she was involved we were able to attract talent as diverse as the top line cast, Topher (Grace), Ellen (Burstyn) and Donald

The Calling, starring Susan Sarandon, opens this weekend in select markets.

(Sutherland).

The movie is a throwback to, as Stone says, "propulsive thrillers with big ideas executed by brilliant actors."

He says movies like Kiss the Girls, Along Came a Spider and Silence of the Lambs, "used to be the bread-and-butter back in the early '90s and if we could even be put in the same breath as any of those, I'd be thrilled."

"Those are some of my favourite movies of that era. There is so much character in them. I feel like the studios have replaced a lot of the character in those mid-range films with spectacle. It takes a lot more money to make your money back so you have to appeal to a much broader audience. I guess that means adding robots."

Not that he's unwilling to make a mega-movie one day. "I hope to have a long career making the films I'd love to make," he says. "So if the right story comes along and there's a budget behind it, I feel like I'd definitely jump at the chance if there was a story I could connect to and I thought there was some humanity to it."

The 'Holy Grail' of Canadian cinema

The Captive. Ryan Reynolds jumped at chance to work with Canada's Atom Egoyan — for acting and directing reasons

scene@metronews.ca

Ryan Reynolds agreed to play the lead role in Atom Egoyan's The Captive before he even knew what the part was.

"He could've had me playing pretty much anything," said the actor about the Canadian filmmaker whose oeuvre includes the Oscar-nominated hit The Sweet Hereafter. "He's kind of the Holy Grail of Canadian cinema and to get the opportunity to work with him, you're kind of chomping at the bit."

Surprisingly, the Vancouver-born star had not only never worked with Egoyan — he'd only met him once before. But he got up close with the director as he played the father of a missing girl.

"Atom deals with such darkness, but he packages it in such a way that it's comfortable (to watch)," explained Reynolds.

He also notes that as palatable as Egoyan's films are to viewers, it's much more challenging on the other side of the lens.

"At the end of the day, when you're lying in your bed — in some motel room in this case

The Captive opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

— you're basically just spent. When you spend the day doing 10 or 12 takes of you uncontrollably sobbing, that doesn't feel good."

Although he only spent two weeks filming heavy scenes for The Captive (he was shooting another film simultaneously) Reynolds appreciated the opportunity to study Egoyan at work. After all, the actor admits he has his eye on directing.

Cautious about discussing any detailed plans, he admits directing would require stepping out from the spotlight.

"I understand why actors that direct are in their own movies because they kind of scratch two itches with one hand. But if I were to direct something, I wouldn't necessarily want to be in it. I'd want to be as objective as I possibly can."

Atom Egoyan. Filmmaker found inspiration in true child abduction cases

Writing the screenplay for his new film was a tough experience for Atom Egoyan.

The Captive, starring Ryan Reynolds, is a fictional story about child abduction in the Niagara region but it has roots in reality.

Missing child posters in Egoyan's hometown of Victoria, B.C., haunted his dreams, giving him a heightened awareness of "this person who created this huge hole in another group of people's lives."

Those images, coupled with news of a pedophile ring in Cornwall, Ont., inspired the hard-hitting story of the mysterious disappearance of Cass (Alexia Fast), taken from the backseat of her father's (Ryan Reynolds) truck as he picked up food at a diner.

Held hostage by a pedophile (Kevin Durand), the girl is locked in a hidden apartment where she plays piano and watches streaming video of her mother (Mireille Enos) at work as a hotel maid.

"When the results of (the Cornwall case investigation) were announced, I just found it so troubling," he says. "I started writing this script in 2009 and put it aside for a while because it just felt too dark and then I began to think about it as three couples: a couple who are trying to understand what happened to their daughter; one couple who we aren't sure should be together — the detectives (Scott Speedman and Rosario Dawson) who form a relationship over the course of the case; and then this other couple who you know should not be together — the pedophile who steals a child and holds her captive for eight years."

"When I began to see these three couples and examine the relationships, it began to find a form."

The next hurdle was finding a star. The Oscar-nominated director, known for highbrow films like The Sweet Hereafter and Exotica, found his leading man Reynolds at the movies.

"If I was to be honest," he says, "I'd say the reason I was inspired to work with him was Safe House. There were elements in that film that were exciting to me."

Reynolds says he's always wanted to work with Egoyan, saying, "growing up as a Canadian kid who loved movies, you've got to understand that Atom Egoyan was a kind of Holy Grail to me."

"That's very sweet," Egoyan says. "God, I'm not that much older than him. But I guess I am. I don't think he saw Next of Kin and Family Viewing or Speaking Parts. He must be talking about starting with Exotica. I found that touching, but I found his commitment and his desire to be in the film is what really brought the whole film together."

Hanks, Wilson mortified by 'out-of-control' son and his rude rapping rants

Well, this is embarrassing. Tom Hanks and wife Rita Wilson are reportedly mortified over the online antics of their 24-year-old son, Chester, and his rapper persona Chet Haze, according to Radar Online.

"Chet's out of control on the Internet, and it's a huge embarrassment to Tom and Rita," a source says. "He talks tough street talk and raps about skipping classes to smoke pot. But behind his back people are laughing because they know he was raised in Brentwood with mega-wealthy parents."

Chet, who reportedly doesn't have a steady job and still lives at home, recently posted an inflammatory video in which he berates women for getting "naked on Instagram" and "f—ing around," before blurting out, "I'm already drunk."

Cox wants a second kid, but without all the work

Courteney Cox is apparently cool with being a mom again, but with a few conditions. The Cougar Town star and her fiancé, Snow Patrol guitarist Johnny McDaid, are reportedly on the search for a surrogate mother to carry a child for them, according to Star magazine. "They're already looking for someone who can do it," a source says. "At first he didn't want kids, but Johnny has spent so much time with (Cox's 10-year-old daughter) Coco that he's realized a massive part of him wants a child of his own." Not to put too fine a point on it, but the source also says that both Cox and McDaid "are obsessed with the idea."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Brad and Angie wed at last, with entire clan playing a role

NED
Metro in Hollywood

Well, everybody, it finally happened.

Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie went and got themselves hitched — according to noted scandal sheet the Associated Press — and they did it at their chateau in the South of France.

Kudos to whichever tabloid reported at some point over the past nine years that they'd be getting married in France.

Of course, there have been reports that they'd be getting married pretty much everywhere on Earth (and possibly in space) so someone had to be right at some point.

According to the Associated Press, Pitt and Jolie put a lot of work into making sure all of the Jolie-Pitt clan could take part.

Elder sons Maddox and Pax walked Jolie down the aisle, Zahara and Vivienne served as flower girls, and Shiloh and Knox were ring-bearers.

Local orphans looking to get in on the action showed up and tried to usher, hoping to land a more permanent position in the family, but were sadly turned away.

George Clooney

Clooney wedding mired in a pre-nup standoff and fears of Jolie-Aniston clash

In less joyful matrimony news, Pitt pal George Clooney is reportedly having a heck of a tough time planning his own wedding with fiancée Amal Alamuddin.

Among the chief sticking points, according to the National Enquirer? Worries over the guest list, a standoff on the pre-nup and their wedding planner just up and quitting.

About that guest list: Apparently the unholy trinity of Brad Pitt, Angelina Jolie and Jennifer Aniston is causing headaches once again.

Pitt was planning to attend solo, and Aniston has reportedly said she's coming, but now so is Jolie. "At first she was on the fence about going," a source says of Jolie. "But she quickly changed her mind after George told her that President Obama RSVP'd yes.

"George is extremely concerned that by inviting both these women, they'll undoubtedly try to upstage each other and, in doing so, take the spotlight off the bride."

Grilled Vegetable and Garlic Salad. Skip the store-bought dressing and make your own in no time

When it comes to grilling, meat is a no-brainer.

But I'm challenging you to think outside the box and throw a few vegetables on the barbecue, too.

Start small with a simple salad and then, start experimenting with others.

Dressing

1. On a work surface, chop the garlic with the pepper

Ingredients

Dressing

- 1 small clove garlic, finely chopped
- 1 pinch crushed red pepper flakes
- 1 tsp (5 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1 tsp (5 ml) sugar
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) white wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) olive oil
- Sea salt
- Pepper

flakes. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients with a whisk. Season with salt and pepper.

Salad

1. Preheat the grill, setting the burners to high. Oil the grate.

2. Place the vegetables, except for the tomatoes, on a large baking sheet and brush with the oil. Season with salt and pepper. Grill the mushrooms in a grill wok or threaded on wooden skewers. Grill the vegetables until tender. Cut the cooked zucchini into thick slices. Place the grilled vegetables and tomatoes in a large serving platter and drizzle with the dressing.

Big-boned Napa love

LIQUID ASSETS

California winemakers were shaken early this week when a magnitude-6.0 earthquake rocked the state's premier vineyards in the Napa Valley.

While there was thankfully no loss of life, tweeted images of destroyed bottles and barrels had wine lovers reaching for Kleenex while vineyard employees scrambled for cheesecloth.

Though no time is a good time for a natural disaster, this hit to the Cali wine industry arrives as the popularity of Golden State juice is on the upswing. The last thing winemakers needed was an event that might put a cork in that momentum.

Long considered the Bordeaux of the New World, Napa's famous for its big-boned wines made with cabernet sauvignon and chardonnay. Louis M. Martini is one of the region's oldest producers. Owned by E. & J. Gallo, its wines are a Napa benchmark.

The 2010 Louis M. Martini Napa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon ($29.99 - $39.99) is a meaty mix of cherry, blackberry, cedar and chocolate. Cellar-worthy, it's a perfect mate for your favourite cut of steak. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Redblacks, Als in must-win contest

Battle. Montreal and Ottawa are both 1-7 and on extended losing streaks in the underachieving East

It's early in the CFL season to talk of a "must-win" game, but that's how it may be for the Montreal Alouettes.

The Alouettes and the Ottawa Redblacks are both 1-7 and are on extended losing streaks, but Ottawa is an expansion team that didn't have high expectations.

A loss at home to the newcomers, their closest geographic rivals and a team they must beat to have any hope of taking a playoff spot in weak East Division, would be devastating for Montreal, although centre Luc Brodeur-Jourdain doesn't see it that way.

"For me, every game is a must win," said Brodeur-Jourdain. "I don't see it as 'Ottawa is an expansion club so it's a must-win.'

"We must win every game. We must be there and clinch first place in the East and go into the playoffs with momentum. We have to get out of this black hole we're in right now."

The Alouettes face the Redblacks on Friday night at Percival Molson Stadium in Montreal, where Ottawa beat them 26-10 in a pre-season game when Henry Burris went 17-for-22 and running back Chevon Walker scored three touchdowns.

Montreal has lost six games in a row, while Ottawa's losing run is at five.

The Alouettes return home after losses at Saskatchewan and Winnipeg in which the defence was mostly solid but the offence continued to struggle.

The ongoing search for a replacement for retired future Hall-of-Famer Anthony Calvillo took another twist last week, as former Edmonton Eskimo Jonathan Crompton showed some promise as quarterback when he replaced starter Alex Brink in the second quarter in Winnipeg.

Crompton, the fourth pivot to see action this season, is to get his first CFL start against the Redblacks.

Week 10 pick

Redblacks at Alouettes, Friday, 7:30 p.m. (TSN)
A crucial game for both teams, who despite having just one win apiece remain tied for second with Hamilton (1-6) in the East Division. Montreal (1-7) has dropped six consecutive games while Ottawa

(1-7) has lost five straight. And a lack of offence has been a big problem for both.

The Alouettes have managed a league-low seven TDs but the Redblacks have scored just two more. Ottawa would appear to have a huge edge in experience at quarterback with Henry Burris, in his 17th pro season. But Burris has completed just 58.3 per cent of his passes with more interceptions (six) than TDs (five).

Dressler returns to Saskatchewan Roughriders

Weston Dressler is back with the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The veteran slotback re-signed with the CFL club Wednesday after passing his physical. The Riders announced that Dressler will also don his usual No. 7 jersey number after quarterback Seth Doege made the change to No. 9.

Dressler was released by the Kansas City Chiefs on Monday and cleared NFL waivers the following day, making him an unrestricted CFL free agent.

The Ottawa Redblacks also made a formal contract offer to Dressler on Wednesday,

Pospisil, Sock overcome injuries to advance in US Open

Wimbledon doubles champions Vasek Pospisil of Vancouver and Jack Sock of the United States both overcame injury to reach the second round of the U.S. Open Thursday with a 6-4, 6-4 defeat of Jarkko Nieminen and Henri Kontinen.

Pospisil had been bothered by a shoulder injury during a singles loss to Simone Bolelli this week while Sock had to quit in his first-round singles with a calf injury and cramping.

Later Thursday, men's No. 5 Milos Raonic of Thornhill, Ont., faced Germany's Peter Gojowczyk.

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

You will get riled up about something today. There is nothing you hate more than injustice and you will go out of your way to expose it.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

If you expect great things of yourself then you will accomplish great things. But make sure it is your own expectations you are trying to live up to — not other people's.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

If you sit quietly and let your inner voice speak today you will get the answers you have been looking for. Never doubt there is meaning to your existence.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Some people just rub you the wrong way and you will have to deal with at least one such person today. The important thing is to realize you cannot change them — no more than they can change you.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Life will confront you with a series of challenges that would have people running for cover. Amazingly, you'll actually rather enjoy being put to the test.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Those who don't share your way of looking at the world will go out of their way to intimidate you. Insist on having your say. Don't back down.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Don't expect much of others today because they will be inclined to say one thing while doing something different. There is nothing much you can do about others' actions.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Like it or not you'll have to adapt to what others do. Fortunately, with Mercury moving in your favour there won't be as many misunderstandings as there have been recently.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Make sure that what you are working on is for your benefit, rather than the benefit of people who know they can look good by being on your side.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

The Sun in Virgo will make it easy to excel creatively and romantically. Be on the lookout for new opportunities. A smile could set you on a new journey.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If you try to shift the blame for something you did wrong the results could be embarrassing. Everyone makes mistakes so accept that you are at fault.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Others may say you're not being serious enough about what's going on in the world but you're not obligated to feel guilty about the things that you didn't cause.
